WASHINGTON LETTER. WASHINGTON, D.C.,

There are now, for the first since Spring, but two members of the Cabinet absent, Mesers Everts and McCrary. The former is in New York and the latter is supposed to he some where in Iowa. Mr. Everte is speak ing in the interest of civil service re form, and advocates the election o Federal office, also in the interest reform. At the Unbinet meeting yes terday the first for a month or mon no business was transacted. It wi be remembered that two of Mr. Hayes early reform pledges were that Federal officers abould be prevented from in terfering in politics, and that he would cemain in Washington. If ever tw pledges were violated these have been A very gratifying interest is being shown all over the country in the proniversery of the capture of Yorktown All really patriot men wish for a revival of interest in the events of those wars in which the whole country was united against a common enemy. I trust that not only will each State and the Federal Government take official notice of the coming event, but that municipalities, societies, and the people generally will aid in in making the celebration what it should be. Now that the election in Obio is over. the attention of politicians is directed pecially to the campaign going on in New York, Our late intelligence from that State fully confirms the state-ments in our previous letaers as regards the canvass there and its probable re suit, which is that Governor Robinson is constantly growing in strength and that the Conservative and Independent vill vote for him will exceed in number the followers of Kelly, The Democratic State Committee are daily in receipt of letters from prominent and well known Republicans in the central and northern counties of the State who express a dermination to support Gov. Robinson, The Governor's charneter for honesty and integrity has been fully tested. His entire official life, whether as Comptroller of the State or Governor, has been in the interest of reform, and an honest economical administration of Government. A wick for lamps is now meantac-tyred entirely at glass, by Measta-Voubriet and Beek of Hanau, Ger-many. It is designed chiefly for the in petrolaum and spirit lamps; and with ab wound amount of the turned up, it gives a much brighter light than cotton wick. In the spirit lamp, too, it is found to greatly increase the heat of the flame. No sparks are given off by the incombustible wick, nor does the light fare in draughts to the extent which it does with a burning wick; hence it makes the lamp safer. The smoking is also reduced, and it is stated that ten per cent. of oil is saved by its use. Of course the disagreeable task of trimming the lamp is rendered unneces-sary, for being of glass the wick does not consume, but wastes away very slightly by insign - [Chemical Jouron the 29th alt,
